Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 16 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Overnight thunderstorms clearing Thursday morning. Mainly fine Thursday afternoon.

This Evening and Tonight:
A dry start on Wednesday evening and remaining warm. Thundery showers and rain with possible hail and gusty winds will spread from the south around midnight. Rain and showers locally torrential in places. Minimum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Thursday:
The heavy, thundery rain and showers with hail and gusty winds will clear northeastwards during Thursday morning. Becoming mainly dry with some sunny spells by the afternoon. Very warm again. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Further bands of heavy thundery showers will move northwards at times during Friday and Sunday, but with dry and occasionally sunny periods on Saturday afternoon and later on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.